

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

Lisa Kilpatrick
DaVinciTek
+1-978-273-4088
lkilpatrick@davincitek.com

DaVinciTek Appoints New Vice President, Sales and Marketing

Storage Industry Veteran Hired to Drive Revenue Growth

MORRISTOWN, NJ, — (July 13, 2005) — DaVinci Technology Corporation (DaVinciTekSM), a leading integrator and provider of world-class IT infrastructure services and solutions to Global 2000 and emerging corporations, today announced that storage industry veteran Robert Vicari has been appointed as Vice President, Sales and Marketing. Mr. Vicari will join the executive management team under President and CEO, Anthony Curlo. With the addition of Mr. Vicari, DaVinciTek's executive team boasts a collective 75 years of information technology and storage industry expertise, hailing from industry giants AT&T, EMC and Hewlett Packard, to name a few.

Mr. Vicari will drive the company's global sales and marketing initiatives, including strategic messaging and campaigns for all solutions, strategic alliances, and relationships with key technology partners and associated clients. With over 20 years of proven experience in enterprise storage solutions, Mr. Vicari has served in a wide variety of sales and account management positions, supporting the needs of companies such as Blue Cross/Blue Shield, Bristol-Meyers Squibb, Deutsche Bank, Hitachi and more.

"Bob Vicari has a successful track record of leading teams, building alliances, developing new sales channels, increasing sales and helping position companies for sustained growth. We are delighted to add him to the team in this key role," said Anthony T. Curlo, President and CEO, DaVinciTek. "Bob's leadership and experience in the storage industry will make a strong contribution to our growth, allow us to continue to foster key strategic technology alliances, achieve rapid market penetration and continue to satisfy customer needs; both on our own and in conjunction with our business partners."

Prior to joining DaVinciTek, Vicari served as the global account manager for Dimension Data, a $2.5B integrator of network and application services and enterprise storage. While at Commvault Systems, an $85M manufacturer of enterprise backup and recovery software, Vicari served as senior account manager. At Quantum/ATL Corporation, a $1.2B manufacturer and enterprise solutions provider of automated tape backup storage libraries, Vicari held the position of channel manager. He also served as senior regional account manager for MTI Technology, an $80M manufacturer of enterprise storage solutions, and as senior district sales executive for $10B+ Bell Atlantic Mobile. Vicari began his career at Digital Equipment Corporation, where he held a wide range of sales positions. Vicari received a Bachelor of Science in Business from Bloomfield College, and a degree in Advanced Electronics and PC Computing from RETS Institute of Technology.

About DaVinciTek

DaVinci Technology Corporation (www.davincitek.com) is a leading provider of world-class IT infrastructure services and solutions to Global 2000 and emerging corporations. DaVinciTek is dedicated to delivering innovative, comprehensive, market-proven solutions that: exceed our customers' requirements and expectations, create tangible enterprise value, provide true business advantage, and increase market share and profitability. We offer a single point of contact for managing the costs, risks, and performance of the information technology infrastructure and its complete lifecycle, including assessment, architecture, installation and operations. DaVinciTek is a privately held corporation with headquarters in Morristown, New Jersey, USA. For more information, contact DaVinciTek at (877) 4IT-Solutions or (973) 993-4860.

DaVinciTek—Leading the IT RenaissanceSM.

DaVinciTek, the DaVinciTek logo, and Leading the IT Renaissance are service marks of DaVinci Technology Corporation. All other trademarks, registered trademarks, and service marks are the property of their respective owners. ©2005 DaVinci Technology Corporation.

##